

Halleck Wins Over Martin

Demo-Dominated 86th Congress Opens Today

Majority Party Leadership Will Not Be Changed

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republicans ejected their veteran leader, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Tuesday on the eve of a new congressional session.

A rebellion pointed toward giving the party high command a more aggressive, vigorous look shifted the leadership mantle to Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Martin pointed a finger of blame at some White House aides, but not at President Eisenhower directly. He also said Vice President Richard Nixon's associates opposed him.

The changeover provided a dramatic, spectacular prelude for a similar showdown within Senate Republican ranks and for the opening of the heavily Democratic 86th Congress at noon Wednesday.

Rayburn Retains Post

For their part, Democrats were free of leadership feuds. They picked another veteran, Sam Rayburn of Texas, for a ninth term as speaker of the House. Rayburn, 77 Tuesday, already has held the post longer than any other man.

Senate Democrats will go along Wednesday by giving the nod to another Texan, Lyndon B. Johnson, to stay on as majority leader.

Democrats were fussing, though, about the ancient issue of the filibuster—an issue that begins coming to a head on the Senate floor Wednesday. Senate Republicans were in on the filibuster dispute, too.

Johnson was reported to be working on a new compromise proposal in hopes of avoiding a fight which would shatter Democratic unity.

A showdown within GOP ranks at the other end of the capital is scheduled for Wednesday morning.

A Republican group in the Senate put up John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky against Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for the minority leadership post. Dirksen had the backing of the old-line GOP leaders.

The Republican insurgents in both Senate and House were demanding harder hitting, more progressive men in the command posts, with a view to rallying the party from its Nov. 4 election debacle.

Filibuster Scrap

The Senate filibuster fight, which scrambles party lines, pits Southern Democrats against some Northerners and Westerners of both parties.

In the past, the Southerners have dug in against civil rights legislation and used the right of unlimited debate as their main last-resort weapon. This time they may filibuster, although they say it will be an educational process to protect the power to filibuster.

Northerners are massing for a move to change Senate rules so that filibusters can be ended by a smaller number of votes. A vote of two-thirds of all the members—66 senators—is required now and is hard to get.

Octavus Roy Cohen, Noted Writer, Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Octavus Roy Cohen, 67, well known writer of books, plays and motion pictures, died Tuesday. He suffered a stroke Sunday.

Cohen had been retired in recent years.

He won fame with his Saturday Evening Post series of stories about Florian Slappey and other Negro characters.

A prolific writer, he had turned out more than 60 books, including 15 plays, and written the scripts for 30 motion pictures. His last book was "Borrasca."

"Glass" Undies Help Baltimore Cops Beat Cold

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—While directing traffic in bitter cold weather, how do the men in blue keep from turning same?

Their secret leaked out Tuesday:

They wear glass-lined undies. At least 60 traffic cops in Baltimore do. When the temperatures slide, the cops slip into fiber-glass longies. They say they're warmer than wool.

Bartlett Alaska Senior Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The flip of a borrowed silver dollar made E. L. (Bob) Bartlett Alaska's senior senator Tuesday.

Ernest Gruening, who called the fall of the coin wrong in a ceremony at his office, will be the 49th state's junior senator.

Both men are Democrats, so the result will give Bartlett both the title of senior senator and priority in the allocation of Senate committee posts to the new state.

Another toss of the coin, borrowed from a reporter, gave Gruening the privilege of finding out the length of his Senate term.

A new state names two senators in its first election, but one of them serves longer than the other because the terms must be staggered.

Gruening will draw a slip from a bowl Wednesday to determine whether his term will run six, four or two years. Bartlett then will choose one of the remaining two slips to find out how long he will serve. Depending upon their luck, both senators might draw less than the full six-year term.

Asked what data has been received from the 796 pounds of instruments in the cosmic rocket about the moon's magnetic field, Blagonravov said such data would be made public after processing which probably would take considerable time.

The promise was made by Frank Chionchio, 28-year-old attorney, as he took his sobbing wife, Frances, 26, home to their year-old daughter.

Cosmic Rocket Initial Attempt, Russians Say

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russian scientists successfully launched their cosmic rocket, a multi-stage guided missile, on true course and at proper speed for an orbit around the sun the first time they tried it was announced Tuesday.

A statement said there were no failures such as the four setbacks suffered by the United States in its efforts to reach the vicinity of the moon.

The cosmic rocket, now being dubbed, "Mechta" (dream), Tuesday was reported more than 500,000 miles out in space and headed toward an orbit around the sun that should begin Wednesday or Thursday. Its three transmitters were dead.

Pre-Election Decree Rule Set For Cuba

Urrutia Dissolves Congress, Suspends All Criminal Courts.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The revolutionary government dissolved Congress Tuesday and announced it will rule Cuba by decree for at least 18 months when new elections are planned.

The government suspended all criminal courts, regarded as a symbol of the fallen dictatorship of President Fulgencio Batista, and was reported preparing a decree abolishing all political parties.

The provisional regime dismissed all provincial governors, mayors and councilmen. Apparently their functions will be taken over by new civilian appointees prepared in advance for the task.

Batista Trial Looms

Other decrees, informed sources said, would ban all candidates in the 1954 and 1958 elections from Cuba's political life, freeze the private bank accounts of all Batista officials, and stop the cashing of all outstanding checks against the Batista regime.

Revolutionary courts were reported being prepared to try Batista, now in exile in the Dominican Republic, and other officials who may be accused of crimes during his rule.

In Washington, U.S. Atty. Gen. William Rogers said Tuesday Batista would not be granted asylum in the United States if he sought it.

Batista is now in the Dominican Republic.

"There seems to be no question about any physical danger to Batista in the Dominican Republic," Rogers told newsmen.

Thongs Slow Castro Procession

Rogers noted that U.S. grants of asylum always involved a showing that the person seeking entry would be in physical danger if he remained where he was.

The initial policies of the new government were being shaped as Fidel Castro, the rebel leader who shoved Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to power, was still plodding through arduous throns toward the capital. It was doubtful he would reach Havana Wednesday as planned.

The decree abolishing Congress said the Urrutia government could rule by ministerial decree until free elections are held. Urrutia has announced that these would be held in 18 to 24 months.

Asked if the Soviet Union has changed its position in any way on Berlin, he replied:

"Why change it? One does not change a good position."

Mikoyan's comments, made outside Nixon's office in the Capitol, contrasted with hints he dropped earlier on a softening in the Soviet's position to turn East Berlin over to its puppet East German regime in May.

The meeting between Mikoyan and Nixon was arranged at the former's request. The Soviet Embassy termed it a courtesy call on Mikoyan.

Cold Wave Claims Lives Of At Least 2 Marylanders; Relief Expected Thursday

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau said no real relief may be expected until Thursday, but there is a chance of slight moderation Wednesday.

The first cold wave of the year already had claimed two lives. Monday night and early Tuesday temperatures plunged swiftly. Dangerous pack ice was reported forming in the upper reaches of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal shortly before dawn.

An 86-year-old man identified as William Johnson, Negro, was pronounced dead on the floor of his unheated bedroom in Baltimore. He died of exposure about six hours later in they tried to thaw frozen pipes with a torch. Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Newcomb, Talbot County, were taken to an Eastern hospital for treatment.

Police said the couple was burned when a torch apparently set fire to a can of gasoline.

The coldest spot in the state was Oakland, Garrett County, where the mercury fell to 5 below zero shortly before dawn.

County Board Orders Survey On Insurance

The Independent Agents Association of Allegany and Garrett County was authorized yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to make a complete survey of the county's insurance program and make recommendations.

James Reinhart, J. Glenn Beall Jr. and Robert Barnard, representatives of the association, told the commissioners that the engineering staffs of a number of national insurance firms would take part in the survey.

The association writes about 90 per cent of the county's insurance. The county pays about $30,000 annually for insurance coverage such as fire, fleet insurance and liability.

After the survey is completed, the association will submit a report and will service the insurance coverage. Under this plan it would assign insurance to the agents in the county at the direction of the county board.

Reinhart told the board that a few years ago the county's insurance on cars, trucks and equipment cost about $9,000 annually. After a survey at that time the insurance was changed to the fleet type and saved the county about $5,000 in premiums.

Broader coverage in several items of liability and improved coverage on buildings and cars and equipment will be considered in the survey. The survey which the association will have made will be done at no cost to the county.

Coverage of county buildings amounts to $1,767,800.

Commissioner John J. Rowan brought up the matter of coverage for boilers in the various buildings and cited the breaking of a feeder pipe to a boiler at the Court House last week. Commissioner William A. Wilson also brought up the damage caused to a private auto when a stump was blasted in road work some time ago. Commissioner John Tucker Mason said the survey would give the board a better idea of the coverage at present and the changes which may be needed.

Sheriff's Office Must Follow Code

Sheriff Edward R. Muir and Commissioner John J. Rowan, prisoners are cared for daily by his five deputies met with the board president, said that the There are many telephone and office contacts and the serving of writs and legal papers take up much time during the average week.

Clark also read the regulations of the County Civil Service Commission pertaining to the deputies' duties and said that the county board can only work within the framework of the county code and Civil Service law.

Sheriff Muir told the board that he has instructed the staff to purchase all foodstuffs at wholesale. This followed an inquiry by Commissioner John Tucker Mason concerning food bills which were submitted by the sheriff's office. These bills showed that most foodstuffs were bought at retail level and in some cases at prices higher than usual. Mason stated last week that at least $300 monthly could be saved in food purchases for the county jail.

As far as the working conditions are concerned, Commissioner Rowan said the sheriff and deputies could obtain changes by seeking new legislation. Until that time, Rowan said, the office would have to follow the county code.

Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county board, said the law was passed many years ago and in one instance a sheriff was suspended for 26 hours on from duty for some time for two consecutive days starting violation of this law. Rowan said New Year's Day and was unable that the sheriff is responsible to get away for meals downtown, the work schedules and other.

Recently the county board told matters in administering his the sheriff's office that no office. The county is only responsible for the payment of meals from the food prepared at the jail and paid for by the Edward Lewis, chief deputy, county. The deputy who worked read a report showing the work the long schedule asked if he which was done by the office should not be allowed to take a since last October 3. He said the report shows an average of 34

Ever wonder why some pills come in clear, transparent bottles, while others hide behind brown or dark-green glass? It's no accident, but by design. Why . . . ? Simple daylight can reduce the potency of some medications. Consider how sunshine fades a rayon print, for instance. Thus, where needed, we use dark bottles, not to hide anything, but to preserve the medical effectiveness of the drug your physician prescribed for you. "Lila" have now made an offer for "Dr. Zhivago" for which Boris Pasternak won the Nobel Prize but didn't accept. I had thought that Josh Logan owned the rights, but according to the representative of James B. Harris and Stanley Kubrick, they have been negotiating with Weil, Gotschal and Manges, legal firm which represents the publishers of the American version of "Dr. Zhivago," the No. 1 best seller. Harris and Kubrick were advised that the motion picture rights have not been sold to anyone.

When I talked to Stanley Kubrick a few weeks ago, he told me that he and Harris had turned down $650,000 for the film rights to "Lila" offered by Richard Davis of the Fine Arts Theatres, which would have netted them a profit of half a million dollars.

Telephoned to congratulate Walter Wanger on Susan Hayward's winning the New York Critics Award for best actress in his picture "I Want to Live." He had just received still another honor.

Three hundred and fifty chirologists, meeting in Washington, D.C., had voted "I Want to Live," an unanimous tribute, as "an outstanding crime documentary which has done more to help the fight against capital punishment than any film in memory." It was signed Donald E. MacNamara, chairman, American Society of Criminology.

Walter, however, is on to newer ventures. After "Cleopatra" for 20th, he'll turn his attention to "The Dud Avocado," based on Elaine Dundy's amusing best seller.

On Jan. 18 Robert Hardy Andrews leaves for Egypt to discuss "Love and Faith," which is based on a best selling historical novel in Arabic. He will make it for Ramses Naguib, Egypt's top pro-

20th Century-Fox with the idea of starring her in "The Jean Harlow Story," begins her New Year with an unhappy project. A custody battle over her two-year-old son, David, who is living in Memphis with her mother, looms on the horizon.

Stella goes back to Memphis after she completes "Say One for Me" to file a court action asking degree in economics. Suddenly that she be allowed to bring Davy collapsed with tuberculosis, id here. Her ex-husband Herman She was taken to the City of Hope Stephens has made it clear that where she received excellent care he will seek complete custody of and is now fully recovered. I was their son and ask that he be kept sorry to have missed the dinner in Memphis if she tries to bring which Irene and Bob Andrews the little boy to California.

John Ireland telephoned to wish me a happy New Year and to say he's leaving soon for New York. He has signed to co-star with honors which went to Susan Hayward for "best actress" in "I Want to Live." David Niven for "best actor" in "Separate Tables," and "The Defiant Ones" for best picture.

These selections are all well in the running for the Oscar race, but it was the "runners-up" which lifted some eyebrows in Hollywood. For instance, Niven just barely beat our Alec Guinness in "Horse's Mouth" by ONE vote, and Susan's closest competition was Shirley Booth in "Hot Spell."

Where were Rosalind Russell, Liz Taylor, Shirley MacLaine and Jean Simmons in the ladies race?

The very pretty platinum blonde Stella Stevens, who was signed by sprawling about the yard.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You Lead Two Lives

As a career girl you lead two lives. One is your business or professional life, the other your personal life. And the more successful you are in both, the more you separate the two.

Keeping the personal out of business is a serious concern of executives. These points are carefully considered by business organizations in evaluating women employees: the discussing of personal affairs in the office and bringing in outside troubles; too personal attitudes toward coworkers; gossiping; personal telephone calls on company time; the wearing of clothes that are unsuitable for business.

There's no question about what a hindrance faults of this kind can be to an upward climb—the girl who's guilty of them cannot seem to be as interested in her work or as capable of doing enough of it as she should be to deserve promotion, and sometimes even to be kept on the job. But there's also no question of the respect there is for a strict code of attention to business and reserve about personal matters. Men respect it particularly and recognize it readily as an attribute of the girl who's slated to go far.

Your second life is the richer for being set apart from the first. There's more enjoyment of your friends and family if you leave the office behind when you close its door, and others enjoy you more. Spend those hours you call your own as differently from your paid occupation as you can. Be a changing as you slip from one life to the other. Develop interests and talents that will make your world wider and round out the kind of personality which will, in both lives, increase your rating in charm.

Another IGY Coming Soon?

A cartoon in a recent issue of the New Yorker magazine was a dramatic reminder that the International Geophysical Year was drawing to a close. The cartoon showed, in the background, an Arctic military base with a ship loading. In the foreground an Eskimo girl was looking forlornly up in the face of a fellow in earmuffs ready to leave with his suitcases. He speaks:

"Let's just say 'au revoir,' honey. There's sure to be another International Geophysical Year!"

Plans are afoot, at least, for a program called "International Geophysical Cooperation—1959." The Little America outpost in the Antarctic is scheduled to be closed out January 20.

The chances are that scientific cooperation will continue even without specific prolonging of the IGY. The International Council of Scientific Unions is setting up committees to go on with joint research on the ocean, space, the sun, and Antarctica.

What's the net result of the work of the past 18 months? "The single most significant peace-time activity of mankind since the Renaissance and the Copernican revolution" is the accolade applied by Dr. Hugh Odishaw, director of the U. S. committee. Odishaw's appraisal is not quite shared by other scientists, among them Rear Admiral John E. Clark, USN, of the Advanced Research Projects Agency.

He observes that while U.S. scientists "lived in a glass house" during the studies of earth and vicinity, Soviet Russia played "coy and superior."

Anyhow, some new, important facts have emerged from the studies. For example, Antarctica is not a solid continental mass but a complex of islands. The total ice and snow of the world is 40 per cent more than previously figured. Three "major counter-currents" have been found in the oceans. A vast mineral-rich region is discovered in the bottom of the Pacific.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Illusions

There are still Americans who have illusions as to what the relations are between the United States and the Soviet Union. But there are no illusions on the other side. I have been reading General Yang Yung's report on the Chinese People's Volunteers which he heads. He starts with this paragraph:

"Chairman, fellow members, and comrades: The fine sons and daughters—the Chinese People's Volunteers—dispatched by the people of the motherland have as a whole now returned to the motherland after having carried through the protracted resist-America and aid-Korea struggle in Korea in the past [eight] years. The withdrawal of all the CPV from Korea signifies that the great and historic task of resisting U.S. aggression and aiding Korea entrusted to the Volunteers by the people of our motherland has come to a victorious conclusion."

This address was delivered on October 30, 1958 and represents the assertion that the Korean War, which President Truman regarded as a police action on behalf of the United Nations, was an act of American aggression and that the so-called Chinese Volunteers, an intervening Red Chinese Army, was victorious, which is indeed true but only because General Douglas MacArthur was not permitted to fight a war to a victory but had to avoid a sanctuary for the Chinese Volunteers established in Manchuria.

General Yang summarized our participation in the Korean War as follows:

"On June 25, 1950, the U.S. imperialists directed their lackey, the Syngman Rhee clique, to launch a premeditated offensive against the Democratic People's Republic of Korea. Following this, the American imperialists massed their own troops and those of 15 satellite countries and threw them into this criminal war of aggression under the flag of the United Nations, in a wild effort to wipe out the DPRK at one stroke, to extend the war to China, and to spread the flames of war to the whole world."

The story, as told by General Yang of the Chinese Volunteers is the other side of the coin and if one compares his statement with the MacArthur hearings and the Wedemeyer book recently published, the historic record, when the data comes in from all sides, will show that the United States made a grievous mistake when it did not fight a local war to a victorious conclusion, and that a nation which gives the enemy the impression that it so fears a general war that it will accept defeat in limited wars, is only held in contempt. No document more contemptuous of the United States than General Yang's report can be imagined.

Now let us turn from this to Cuba. Geographically Cuba is part of the United States. It lies adjacent to Florida and is so near that an automobile ferry service is maintained with Key West. It is by air, a suburb of Miami. About $1,000,000,000 of American money is invested in Cuba in legitimate business enterprises; how much American money is invested in the Cuban rackets, cannot be known. The second largest industry in Cuba is tourism which is mainly from the United States. The principal business is sugar, the United States taking the bulk of the crop.

Cuba was a Spanish colony until the Spanish American War (1898). It was then ceded to the United States which should have kept it. After a short period of possession, and after imposing the Platt Amendment, Cuba was given its independence and has been a problem ever since.

In spite of all the goody-goody talk from William Jennings Bryan to Nelson Rockefeller, the history of Central and South America, if viewed objectively, can lead only to the conclusion that these peoples govern themselves inadequately, that their officials are too often corrupt and tend to become tyrants and that whereas in time of peace, what they do may be amusing and colorful, in time of war, their proximity to the United States makes their instability a peril.

Surely, the United States cannot afford for Cuba to be a Soviet base and therefore the United States cannot be without deep concern as to the future of Cuba. So far as the United States is concerned, the only menace we face is from Soviet Russia and who ever is for Soviet Russia is against us. Whether a nation's rulers are crooks or dictators does not matter to us as much as whether they are pro or anti-Russian.

'The Money? From You - Naturally'

Mikoyan Wants To Know Which Way Wind Blows

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—Anastas Mikoyan, the second man in the Kremlin, has come to smell the weather in the street in the capital of the West. He wants to know which way the wind is blowing at this stage of the Berlin crisis.

This being Mikoyan's primary purpose, it is good news that the Western Allies are said to be very close to final agreement on their "contingency plans" for the defense of Berlin.

At Paris, the Western Allies beat their breasts and cried, "We shall be firm, we shall be firm." The Kremlin was sufficiently impressed to respond by asking for Mikoyan's American visa. But governments crying, "We shall be firm," too often resemble fat ladies crying, "We must go on a diet," as they reach for a second helping of dessert.

According to high authorities here, the planning talks have now produced rather detailed and general agreement on the right tactical responses to the several different sorts of challenge that the Soviet and the East German puppets may offer.

Since these "contingency somewhat rudely challenged the West German government's will and courage to support a truly firm policy. Reportedly, Sir Christopher argued that the West Germans might indulge in great talk now, but would retreat later when the crunch came. The sequel was sufficiently heated to cause a change in the locale of the planning talks. These have mainly centered in Washington, with parallel discussions taking place, of course, in the other capitals.

According to high authorities here, the planning talks have now produced rather detailed and general agreement on the right tactical responses to the several different sorts of challenge that the Soviet and the East German puppets may offer.

If this much progress had not been achieved already, Mikoyan's visit would be a cause for alarm. A government cannot speak firmly as the leader of an alliance, if there is any likelihood of subsequent desertion by the other allies. Unless the "contingency plans" for Berlin had been virtually completed, the leaders of the U. S. Government would therefore have been forced to return uncertain answers to Mikoyan's expected questions. Any uncertainty or hesitation would have been (and will still be) an open invitation to the Kremlin to carry out its Berlin threats.

Because the planning for Berlin is so well advanced, however, Mikoyan can be answered with confidence. But that is by no means the end of the matter.

When the Mikoyan visit was announced, the Soviets first tried to see whether the American government would show weak nerves, by falling all over itself to seize this opportunity for talks. Long mutual stonewalling at last induced the Soviets to name the persons Mikoyan desired to see. Thereupon the Soviet Embassy set a schedule that will almost certainly bring Mikoyan together with the President and with Vice-President Nixon while Secretary Dulles is absent in Ottawa.

The object, no doubt, is to see whether Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon strike the same unyielding note in the absence of the Secretary of State. If this test is passed, further sounding will surely be made, later on, at Paris and London and Bonn, to see whether the other allies strike the same note as Washington has struck. And even if all these tests are passed, it remains to be seen whether the Kremlin will be sufficiently impressed by Western firmness combined with extreme American "defense economy" in the face of an open threat of war.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Dr. I. M. Altaraz told the American Association for the Advancement of Science that our vodka production has jumped 3,736 per cent in seven years. And yet some people think the Russians have given up boring from within.

Dr. Altaraz, a psychologist, says vodka has no stigma like whisky and gin, and thus appeals to the social drinker. A few vodka and the social drinker never felt more sociable.

For the person who doesn't like the taste of whisky and gin, vodka is an easy out. And just as fast.

Another reason for vodka's popularity is, you can mix it with anything. Try some and see how you're ready to mix it.

Hostesses like to serve vodka because it has no taste. Remember, taste makes waist.

Vodka has no odor. That means a lot to people who get high just smelling the cork.

If you're partial to vodka you may find some sort of satisfaction in all this. Just don't let it go to your head.

Causes And Treatment Of Drooping Eyelids

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Trolling the upper lid. Heredity plays a role, especially when both parents have drooping lids. Surgery is the best treatment in the congenital type. The operation may be advised during the first or second year to allow the sight of the child to develop normally.

In the majority of instances that develop later in life, the muscles of the upper lid are weakened or paralyzed by a disorder of the nerve or by apoplexy. Various diseases of the nerves and muscles affect the eyelids along with other parts of the body. Drooping lid or lids may be only one manifestation.

Among these neuromuscular diseases are tabes dorsalis, meningitis, brain tumors, and progressive muscular dystrophy. In myasthenia gravis, the eye muscles tire easily and become so weak, after several contractions, they are powerless to move. Strength returns after muscle fatigue subsides and the cycle is repeated. Other muscles, such as those of the jaws and arms, behave in a similar fashion.

Treatment of the acquired type depends upon the cause. Some victims are benefited by the use of electricity but surgery is the only hope when a mechanical cause exists. Several ingenious operations have been devised. Ptosis spectacles containing tiny props on the upper edge to hold open the lids have been fashioned but are not too successful because some are uncomfortable to wear.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Ben Novack, spectacular impresario of the Fountainbleau Hotel, Miami Beach, had a grandfather who took it for granted that his progeny would achieve success. When Novack was a boy, the grandfather clutched his arm and demanded, "Ben, how old are you now?" "I'm eleven," answered the boy. "Hmph," nodded his grandfather. "When I was your age, I was already fifteen."

Little Janet had never been on a farm before. Left to her own devices for a spell, she came tumbling into the house in great excitement and cried, "Come quick, mama! There's a wonderful big pig lying on the ground and seven little pigs are blowing her up!"

15 New Democratic Senators Now

Being Sorted Out Into Two Groups

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Most interesting question discussed in Senate cloakroom as the 86th Congress convenes is: "Will this be a Lyndon Johnson Senate or a Democratic Senate?"

This general question was first raised two years ago when Adlai Stevenson, Harry Truman, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Gov. "Soapy" Williams of Michigan, Democratic Chairman Paul Butler, and others started the Democratic Advisory Committee for the specific purpose of keeping Democratic Senators from coming under the exclusive influence of the likable, efficient Senate leader from Texas.

Whether or not this committee can claim credit, Lyndon last years proved an able, on the whole farsighted leader. His views didn't deviate much from those of the advisory committee.

This year the committee is again riding herd benignly on the gentleman from Texas. Lyndon in turn has been getting out the political branding irons to see which of the new Democratic Senators he can brand with "LBJ" the brand of his ranch in Texas.

Of course those who get branded won't even know it. For Lyndon is a political salesman without peer. He was able to talk the loveliest lady in Texas into marrying him, and he can talk the average freshman Senator into teaming up with him without twisting his wrist at all.

He doesn't indulge in blackmail. He's discreet, helpful, solitaire. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota—another tough, battle-seasoned House veteran. He will take orders from no one, is certain to become a Senate leader.

Gale McGee of Wyoming—

Will probably wear the LBJ brand. Sen. Joe O'Mahoney has been expected to turn over

Wyoming chores to the young Senator.

McGee is inclined to be a friend-forgetter and a chin-puller-in. When working as O'Mahoney's assistant last year he ran like a scared rabbit from a probe of Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey.

Howard Cannon of Nevada—

Will probably take the LBJ brand. He's a little overawed by being elected to the U. S. Senate and will lean on a helpful and important friends.

Ernest Gruening of Alaska—

A maverick. He has already declared himself publicly against the 27½ per cent depletion allowance which is as sacred to John-son as the Talmud is in Jeru-salem.

Bob Bartlett of Alaska—An independent. Knows the ropes from long service as a delegate from Alaska and is not likely to get branded.

Ed Muskie of Maine—Will be inclined to take the LBJ brand.

He will be a popular addition to the Senate and a Johnson team-player.

Harrison Williams of New Jersey—Independent. Won't take the LBJ brand unless it matches his convictions.

A Senate Surprise

Steve Young of Ohio—A maverick. Young was considered a political nobody when he first announced against John Bricker, long considered unbeatable. Young will turn out to be one of the surprises of the new Senate. He is determined to serve one term only and serve well.

Phil Hart of Michigan—A maverick. Will team up with Sen. Pat McNamara, one of the most courageous mavericks in the Senate.

Frank Moss of Utah—Untried, untested, and didn't really expect to win. Therefore he may lean on Lyndon until he gets on his feet.

Jennings Randolph of West Virginia—Conscientious, experienced in the House of Representatives, will bear the LBJ brand most of the time.

Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia—Also likely to get herded into the LBJ corral.

Tom Dodd of Connecticut—Will submit to the LBJ brand with a reasonable amount of docility.

Vance Hartke of Indiana—The hard-working ex-Mayor of Evansville who won by the biggest margin in Indiana's history, already considers himself a devotee and disciple of the likable Lyndon.

This is the probable lineup of the biggest assortment of new Democratic Senators in recent history.

Note—Few mavericks could argue too much with Lyndon Johnson's policies last year. They were good. What they and the Truman-Stevenson committee argue with is that his is a one-man, not a Democratic rule. It's leadership by telephone and messenger boy, not by caucus and party debate. One-man rule, they point out, can deteriorate overnight—by health or otherwise. In Cuba, they remind, Fulgencio Batista was once a great hero.

Inside Havana

To Americans crowded into the Hotel Capri in Havana, movie actor George Raft was the unsung hero of the Cuban revolt. When a motley mob of Cubans started moving on the hotel, Raft went out on the balcony, braved the rifle shots, and called out in Spanish: "Stop! We are your friends. We are here to help you."

The crowd stopped. They had moved on the hotel in general resentment against Americans and because the hotel operates as a night club—symbol of extravagance to poverty-stricken revolutionaries . . . The Cuban treasury

Tom Nugent Signs 4-Year Pact As Maryland's Football Coach

Former VMI, Florida State Mentor Takes Over Job Jan. 15

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Tom Nugent, a New Englander who turned Florida State University into a football power during the last six years, Tuesday signed a four-year contract as head coach at the University of Maryland.

Nugent, a 45-year-old native of Lawrence, Mass., will take over his new job Jan. 15. He replaces Tommy Mont, who resigned under fire last month after compiling a record of 11 victories, 18 defeats and one tie at Maryland during the past three seasons.

Wilson A. Elkins, university president, announced the selection of Nugent after the contract agreement was ratified Tuesday by the Maryland Board of Regents. Nugent came to terms during the week end. Salary terms were not disclosed.

However, Robert Strozier, president of Florida State, said earlier Tuesday at Tallahassee that Maryland had offered Nugent $15,000 annually plus a four-year contract, a house and an automobile. Strozier said Nugent had telephoned him from the current NCAA meeting in Cincinnati and informed him of the offer.

No Replacement Yet

Nugent's selection came amid reports that Terry Brennan, recently ousted as head coach at Notre Dame, was among those under consideration for the Maryland job.

Strozier said he did not know who Florida State would get to replace Nugent. W. G. Starry of the Seminole Boosters Club at Tallahassee said his organization would try to get Florida State to offer its vacant head coaching job to Brennan.

At Cincinnati, Brennan said, "I'll be glad to talk with them, as well as anyone else."

Nugent was both head coach and athletic director at Florida State but will fill only the coaching position here. William W. Coffey will continue as Maryland's athletic director.

A Maryland spokesman said Nugent would be given a free hand in selecting his assistants. Maryland's current assistant coaches are attending the NCAA convention and will confer with Nugent there.

Develops "I" Formation

In six seasons at Florida State, Nugent's teams won 34 games, lost 27 and tied one. He went to Florida State in 1953 after four seasons at Virginia Military Institute, where his teams compiled a 19-12-2 record and won a Southern Conference title. In 10 years as a college coach, his teams won 53 games, lost 45 and tied three.

Nugent is credited with developing the "I" formation, the so-called "typewriter huddle" and the double quarterback.

Has Nine Children

Nugent is married and has nine children, four girls and five boys.

Mont resigned after his 1958 Maryland team wound up with a 4-6 record. Mont became head coach at Maryland after Jim Tatum resigned to become head coach at North Carolina.

Frostburg Gives 100 Pints Blood On Visit There

Five Donors Make Three Gallon Club

FROSTBURG — One hundred pints of blood were collected by the Johnstown, Pa., bloodmobile on its six-hour visit to the American Legion Home here yesterday.

Mrs. G. Franklin Martens, chairman of the Frostburg Blood Bank, said there was some disappointment that the quota of 120 pints was not reached. However, she expressed appreciation for the good showing yesterday despite the near zero weather. She also said that some of the regular Frostburg donors gave blood Monday on the visit to the Celanese plant. Some 239 pints were collected that day.

There were 100 donors and five others were rejected for one reason or another. Fifty per cent or 85 of the 170 scheduled for blood donations yesterday kept their appointments. There were only three first-time givers among the 100 donors. They were Barbara Drew, Carlos; Dick Lewis, Bowery Street, Frostburg, and Charles Smith, a Frostburg State Teachers College student from Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Martens said five donors gained admission in the One Gallon Club for contributing their eighth pint. They included Mrs. Anna Minnick, South Water Street; Mrs. Catherine Perkins, Wrights Crossing; Ronald J. Taylor, Wrights Crossing; James E. Quinn, Cumberland, and George W. Buckley, Hill Street.

Two others who contributed blood yesterday gained membership in the Two Gallon Club. They are Oliver Fabbri, McCullough Street, and Earl Boyer, Linden Street.

There were five other donors who made the Three Gallon Club with the gifts of their 24th pint of blood. They include John Conrad, Hill Street; Dr. John B. Davis, Broadway; Carl H. Ruffo, Washington Street; John Leo Bean, Maple Street, and Drucilla Schriner, Mount Pleasant Street.

Grand Jurors End Duties In Two Days

15 Recommendations Cited In Report; 6 Indictments Returned

One of the fastest-working grand juries in the history of Allegany County Circuit Court wound up its investigations into county crime yesterday afternoon, its second day, with a five-page report listing 15 specific recommendations and several other suggestions.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, who received the report about 4:30 p.m., commended the grand jury on its prompt and excellent job and reminded the 16 men and seven women that they will continue to serve as the county grand jury in recess until the April term of court.

George M. Young, president of the Crystal Laundry Company, was foreman of the grand jury. The clerks were Madeline V. Norris and Dorothy A. Darber.

Washington Memorial

A specific recommendation in the fifth section of the report urged that Judge Harris himself appoint an executive committee and a county-wide committee to formulate plans for the erection of a memorial to George Washington on the Court House property.

Recommended for appointment to this committee were Miss Ruth Clauson, J. William Hunt, Ralph R. Webster and Miss Mary G. Walsh.

Concerning the allegations of the Allegany County Liquor Dealers Association that clubs in the county are operating on Sundays in violation of existing laws, the grand jury report stated that the accusations were without proper foundation. The grand jurors contend that the allegations were the result of rumors and speculations, and that officers of the Liquor Dealers Association were unable to provide any evidence of the alleged violations.

Another section of the brief report laments the absence of records of investigations by law enforcement officers of the county.

The report notes that the October 1958 grand jury recommended that all law enforcement officers keep records of inspections of criminal activity including the date, time and place of investigation or inspection and present this information to each succeeding grand jury. The only office fully complying with this request is the office of Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Request Renewed

States Attorney James S. Getty was requested to again inform each law enforcement officer that this data should be made and reported to each grand jury in writing. With these investigation reports, the grand jury will be better able to determine if adequate policing is being carried out throughout the county.

The grand jury reported that in its two days of activities 24 witnesses were examined and six indictments were returned. None of the indictments had been placed on the open docket in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, yesterday afternoon and consequently are not yet a matter of public record.

Another major recommendation is that in the future all grand jurors be summoned personally by a deputy from the sheriff's office and that the practice of summoning jurors or other witnesses by telephone be discontinued. Only seven of the 23 present grand jurors said they were summoned personally.

Cleaner Streets

The Mayor and Council of both Cumberland and Frostburg were requested to take further steps to see that the streets and sidewalks of their respective towns be kept in a cleaner condition. The cooperation of merchants, business people and the public at large was sought to reduce the amount of litter thrown on the streets. On this recommendation the grand jurors further endorse the practice of adequate packing of litter and refuse in receptacles to prevent its being scattered by the wind before it can be collected.

Among the 15 specific recommendations in the report is a renewal of one made last October.

Finan Appointed

Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes is shown at Annapolis with two top aides whose appointments to his administration were announced yesterday. At left is Thomas B. Finan, Cumberland attorney, nominated to be secretary of state, and at right is Lloyd B. Simpkins of Princess Anne, named executive secretary to the new governor. Mr. Finan's nomination is subject to confirmation by the State Senate, which convenes today for a 90-day session. The appointment, however, will not be submitted to the Senate for action until Mr. Tawes takes office as governor on January 14. (AP Photofax)

Apartments Damaged By Assistant Fire Here

A two-alarm fire yesterday afternoon caused considerable damage to a basement apartment and first floor apartment at 314 Waverly Terrace.

East Side firemen answered the call at 2:59 p.m., and minutes later called on firemen of Central station for assistance.

The cause of the fire was not determined, firemen said, although it apparently broke out in the basement apartment occupied by Earl Ordronoff and a mate.

Rev. Mr. Leather, a native of Frederick, began the service as a member of the congregation, sitting in a first row pew while Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson, rector of St. John's Church, Frostburg, preached the sermon. This sermon immediately followed the processional hymn.

During the singing of a second hymn, the Ordinand was brought forward to the Communion rail to be presented to Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland. Rev. Mr. Leather was presented by Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Church.

Bishop Powell then issued the traditional challenge to the congregation. No man is ordained without the consent of the people. Later, Bishop Powell issued the charge to Rev. Mr. Leather and examined him, at which time the Ordinand publicly pledged his allegiance to the church, indicated his belief in the Holy Scriptures and his determination to serve gladly and willingly as a priest.

Then came the laying on of hands by Bishop Powell, assisted by seven Episcopal clergymen who also participated in the service. In this manner, after the example of Jesus Christ and with the authority of the Apostles, the "Great Commission" is given. In this manner the spiritual heritage of Christ's authority and power is given to the priest.

After the laying on of hands Rev. Leather was presented a New Testament, with authority to preach the word of God, and the Chalice and Paten, with authority to minister the Holy Sacraments. Then came the change in vesting. The stole is no longer worn over the left shoulder and under the right arm.

Lily also said the state's attorney's office received some complaints from persons who contracted for photographs and paid for them without receiving the photos. Most of these complaints came from the Georges Creek area and from Ridgeley.
